BANGSA MALAYSIA FIRST
KUALA LUMPUR: Young Malaysians prefer citizens of the country to be known as Bangsa Malaysia in the next 30 years, Youth and Sports Minister Khairy Jamaluddin said yesterday. He said the inputs obtained from more than 20 series of dialogues on the 2050 National Transformation (TN50) held nationwide also showed that young Malaysians wanted the "wall" that separated the races in the country to be demolished. "They want to see an identity that is more united, which is an identity known as Bangsa Malaysia to be more prominent than that of race or ethnic," he said at the TN50 Dialogue at the Tunku Abdul Rahman University College here yesterday. – Bernama
